COMMON RULES

THE GAME

There is 60 minutes of ice time in a game, which are split into 3 periods. Between the periods, there are 15 minute breaks. The play clock stops when the puck is not on the ice. During stoppages, the players are usually substituted. Games typically take two and a half hours.

ICING THE PUCK

Icing is when a player on his team's side of the red centre line shoots the puck all the way down the ice and it crosses the red goal line at any point (other than a goal). Icing is only called when teams are at equal strength and not during penalty situations. When icing occurs, play is stopped and the puck is returned to the defensive end of the ice for a face-off in the offending team's zone. The defending team who iced the puck are not allowed to change players.

OFFSIDE

A team is offside when any member of the attacking team precedes the puck over the defending team's blueline. The position of the player's skate – and not that of his stick – is the determining factor. If both skates are over the blueline before the puck, the player is offside. If he has only one skate over the blueline and one on it, he is onside.

POWERPLAY + PENALTY KILL

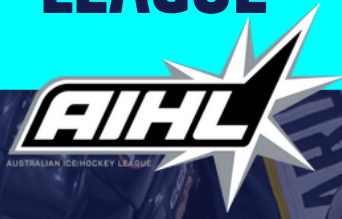

When one team has more players on the ice than the other team, because one player is serving a penalty. The team who took the penalty is on the 'penalty kill' and the team with the extra attacker is on the 'powerplay'.

FACEOFFS

All players take up set positions around one of five face-off circles on the ice. Only two players are allowed inside the circle during the faceoff. The location of the faceoff is determined by the cause of the last stoppage in play.
